Suzhou City

Suzhou, a showcase of China's rapid integration into the global economy is located just a half hour train ride to the west of Shanghai. Boasting two of China's most successful and modern national-level industrial parks, Suzhou is also a UNESCO recognized cultural and tourist attraction, with ancient gardens widely acknowledged as masterpieces of the genre.

Over the last decade, Suzhou has experienced a sustained period of double-digit economic growth. In 2007, Suzhou GDP grew 15.5% to 83 billion USD and per capita GDP reached USD $10,087, putting Suzhou firmly in the top 10 wealthiest cities in China. Suzhou's pillar industries include electronics, IT, electrical machinery, biotechnology and medicine, chemicals and household electrical appliances.
